

It's hard to believe that we're 8 weeks already without our normal way of life. At this point, it seems like that week in March is a distant memory and yet I still feel like I'm stuck in March 2020.

As hard as it's been for everyone though, I still see so much good going for the world. While there have been a few exceptions, people have really done amazingly well in everything that has been sacrificed to control the spread of Covid-19. It's impossible to foresee what's going to happen next but I hope that when this is all over, everyone will be a little kinder, a little nicer, and show more patience.

Like Dave Grohl of the Foo Fighters once said...it's times like these you learn to live again, it's times like these you give and give again, it's times like these you learn to love again, it's times like these time and time again. Everyone take care and God bless you all.
